4. VPV04 - Pascal secondary school (English teaching)

Pascal school is located in suburban area there is limited access to modern and qualified teaching institutes. It aims at creating and providing a friendly and inspiring learning environment for the students in that disadvantaged area. Thinking of the difficult backgrounds of the majority of the students in the area, the school just applies a similar school fee with public ones, which is based on the living standard of local people. With the modest income, the school's management board is still managing to provide adequate facilities to create favorable conditions for the students to study, focusing on learning English – one of the necessary tools for the students to further develop in the future.

Our top priority for support is public sectors, not private one. But with Pascal school, we understand that, “private school” is their status, but what they have done so far is not private at all – it is for the sake of all the students, especially those from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Convinced by the compassion and dedication of the management board of Pascal school, and after having positive feedback from several volunteers who have gotten the chance to work at the school, VPV decided to cooperate with Pascal school to give them as much support as possible to help the students have a chance to learn and improve their English in different ways.

The teacher will let the volunteers lead the class the whole time, during 45'. The volunteers can prepare the lessons freely, choosing the topics, activities, discussions or games they prefer. They do not have to follow the governmental book.

Assisting a local teacher

Some teachers prefer volunteers support them. In this case, volunteer should assist the teacher while doing exercises, correcting the pronunciation, keeping them in silence or helping the teacher in any activity required.

If the volunteer does not feel confident he/she can start supporting the teacher, with the possibility to teach alone after some weeks.

Working time

Each class has one Vietnamese English-teacher with 25 to 40 students, depending on the class. Each period lasts for 45 minutes.

The volunteer participates in different classes per day, working from Monday to Friday. The general timeframe at school is from 7:50 to 17:20. The lunch break is between 11:15 and 1:05 o'clock. Depending on volunteers' schedule, he/she has different beginning and ending time.

GEL was founded as a social enterprise with the objective of providing first class English learning to students of all ages and to contribute to the growth and well being of the community.

It is funded by tuition fees based on the student's financial situation. Some pay full fees, others a reduced fee and some receive tuition at no cost. No one is turned away. GEL also provides scholarships to worthy students.

There are classes offered from kindergarten to adult at the centre and GEL is also contracted to provide lessons at a number of elementary and high schools in and around Lao Cai.

The children, parents and schools highly enjoy having international volunteers around. Due to their warm reception, volunteers generally become equally fond of the children and enjoy the program very much.

Schools start at 7 am in the morning and finish at 11.30 am. There is a break for lunch (from 11.30a.m to 13.40) then start again at 1.45pm to 4.30pm. 14. VPV14 – Education project in Hoa Binh

Hoa Binh is a province in the North of Vietnam, which is about 2 hour bus ride from Hanoi. There are not so many foreigners in this province, so the students here don't have many chances to meet and interact with foreigners. Therefore, VPV sends international volunteers here to help local students improve their English and learn about different cultures.

Volunteers are usually sent to some local high schools, joining English teaching project to students between 15 and 18 years old. The English levels of the students differ from one school to another, even from one class to another. In classes which are specialized in English, students have a better knowledge of English; in other classes, students have very basic English skills.

Volunteer Tasks & Role

Upon request of teachers, volunteers run the activities in the class. They are asked to help students develop speaking and listening skills.

In many cases, volunteers will work alongside with a local teacher, assisting him/her the teacher with correcting students' pronunciation, keeping them in silence or helping the teacher in any activity required.

Sometimes, when the volunteers are confident enough, the teacher will let the volunteers lead the class the whole lesson (around 45 minutes). 15. VPV15 – VPV Community classes in summer

Deriving from the fact that Vietnamese students often have a long summer vacation and the need of improving language ability is obvious, the project VPV Community Class was first kicked off since 2011 and now has become an annual voluntary teaching project held by VPV with a good reputation in the Vietnamese youth community.

Main Aims and Activities

This project offers 2 -3 months English/French courses for the Vietnamese young people with the aim to create an English/French speaking environment to foster their language abilities as well as enhance cultural exchange among the young.

There are 2 different types of students: primary students (8-11 years old) and university/college students (18-23) who do not have so many chances to approach foreign language environments (English/French) and most of them have financial difficulties to afford language classes.

The project will adopt student-centered and task-based approaches to learning English, which aim to let participants express their opinions and to encourage more interaction between international volunteers and Vietnamese participants.

Volunteer Tasks & Role

Volunteers are expected to be the facilitators in the classes with Vietnamese volunteers. The possible tasks of the volunteers may include:

Prepare the plan for the interactive activities such as debate, Forum Theater, etc. with Vietnamese volunteers.

Facilitate those activities in groups to encourage the participants to speak up.

Hold and join extra activities such as field trip, watching movies, etc. for the participants.

*Note: Volunteers will receive training about facilitation before starting the project.

The project usually starts from June 10th to August 10th.

Each class lasts for 2 hours and a half. Working time will be from 8.00 am to 5:30 pm but changeable, depending on the schedule for specific classes. Volunteers work maximum 30 hours per week including in-class activities, weekly meetings with the team and other outdoor/extra activities.

17. VPV17 - Vietnam Friendship Village

Friendship Village is about 8 km far from the VPV headquarters and 15km from Hanoi center. Since bus connection from VPV house to the village is not very convenient, the common transportation to work is bicycle. Other ways to work will be discussed upon volunteers' arrival.

Main Aims and Activities

The aim of the program is to jointly bring care, love and happiness to the children through volunteers' activities.

The Vietnam Friendship Village opened in 1998 and was established to treat and care war veterans and children who are suffering from the effects of Agent Orange, a herbicide and defoliant used by the U.S. Armed forces in its herbicidal warfare program during the Vietnam War. There are currently around 120 children and 40 veterans living in the 11 houses that comprise the Village.

Established by George Mizo, an American Veteran of the Vietnam War, in collaboration with American, German and Vietnamese governments, the Village aims to provide rehabilitation through medical care and physiotherapy, as well as basic education and vocational training for children.

In 2004, an organic gardening project was started at the Village with the aim of increasing awareness of the consequences of war, and to demonstrate strategies for healthy living among those still suffering its effects. The garden now provides around 60% of the vegetables eaten at the Village. It is hoped that in the future the garden can provide all the fruit and vegetables needs for the Village, and eventually grow enough to sell and raise further funds for this much needed community center.

The aim of Friendship Village is to give every effected child the chance and opportunity to lead normal, happy and fulfilled lives. Clearly, given the circumstances this is no easy task, and although, thanks to the dedicated work of those at Friendship Village, tremendous advances have already been made, there still remains much work to be done.

21. VPV21 – Blood Transfusion Institute

Thalassemia is a blood disorder passed down through families (inherited) in which the body makes an abnormal form of hemoglobin. Children who have thalassemia are slow in terms of physical development. They have to suffer from severe complication on endocrine glands, heart, liver and bone. It is estimated that Vietnam has around 2000 children with Thalassemia. Up to now, Vietnam has around 10,000 people having gene of Thalassemia, and 20,000 are in regular treatment in hospitals.

Vietnam Thalassemia Association is a department in National Institute of Hematology and Blood Transfusion supporting and treating kids aging from 3 months old who are in thalassemia. The Vietnam Thalassemia Association was established under the decision No. 1312 /QD – BNV on 11th November 2010. The Vietnam Thalassemia Association contributes a very important role in gathering and connecting the patients into a big family to help each other in the process of treating this disease. Life becomes so boring and exhausting for them, especially for the children, who should be able to spend time at schools studying and playing with their fellow students. Volunteers work with several different groups of patients. Each group has around one hour per day to learn English or take part in some cultural exchange activities at the department's office. There are some books, comics and text books provided to support for teaching or playing games with kids.

Especially, volunteers are encouraged to organize their own activities such as playing music, dancing,... to cheer the patients up and make them feel more optimistic.

There will be some other unexpected work, for example arranging bookshelf in the office room, preparing new materials for activities with the patients...Hence, volunteers should be flexible and proactive.

Working hours: Volunteers usually work from Monday to Friday, from around 8.00am to 4.30pm with a break between 11.30am and 2.00pm.

Travel to work: about 45 minutes by bus.
